Hi Everyone and Happy Guru Purnima,

I wanted to send you these beautiful pictures of a model and recent progress on our land for the new Purusha facility in West Virginia. Also Tuesday is Guru Purnima, the day of Fullness of the Master, and on this special day I wanted to wish you the blossoming of Maharishi's great gifts to us all in the coming year. There is really a sense of tremendous progress in the world as a whole these days and it doesn't take a great act of imagination to see the day dawning not far off when Maharishi's unique contribution will be widely recognized and implemented throughout the world. There are very good developments in the US since the Paul McCartney concert in April--notably in the native American community, in the area of scientific research on TM in areas such as bipolar disease, ADHD, Post Traumatic Stress Syndrome, etc, and in TM in education.

So enjoy the message of Guru Dev to the world, that, "Life is naturally full," and dive deep into the silence that he enlivened for us all.

Concerning the project in West Virginia, we have now raised about $3 million of a $12 million project and if anyone has any creative ideas on how financing for the rest can come about please let me know and I will connect you with Raja Bob LoPinto, who Maharishi put in charge of the construction and who is doing a brilliant job.

All the best. Enjoy the abounding grace of Shri Guru Dev on Tuesday.

All Glory to Guru Dev,

Jai Guru Dev,

Victor

This last pic is a view of our Purusha Mountain from the back (the west). Since the trees have now been cleared from all the sites where buildings will go, now we see that every room will have fantastic long-range views of the rolling hills--which is just what Maharishi wanted. In all ways the project seems to be unfolding with the unseen hand of a Supreme Administrator clearing away the obstacles and moving the project along. It is so inspiring....
